Alex is a national political reporter for POLITICO covering the 2020 election. His reporting has been in Vice News, The New York Times, and Esquire which included a deeply reported piece in Politico Magazine's print issue that revealed the secret history of mental illness among presidents. He was the chief researcher for the 2011 biography Mitt Romney: An Inside Look at the Man and his Politics

Alex is the former editorial assistant and researcher for New York Times columnist Maureen Dowd. He also edited and organized Dowd's 2016 New York Times bestseller "The Year of Voting Dangerously" in which she credits him as "a meticulous researcher, savvy political observer, loyal friend, and really cool dude."

Lecture will be followed by a Q&A Session.
