The Climate Group cordially invites you to join our upcoming webinar delivered in partnership with the Government of California.

Tune in to learn about state and regional strategies to improve soil health and carbon sequestration in farmlands and ranchlands, based on the experience of California’s Healthy Soils Program.

As soil health deteriorates globally, programs promoting healthy soils become imperative. Practices that support healthy soils offer many co-benefits, including agricultural sustainability, climate change adaptation, emissions reductions and increased yields and farm incomes.

In this webinar, California presents its innovative approach to improving soil health, the Healthy Soils Program, and breaks down the program’s key components and mechanisms.

Speakers: Amrith Gunasekara, Science Advisor to the Secretary, California Department of Food and Agriculture
